

DOLLY DIMPLES IS UNDER ARREST

She and Her Managers Accused of Fraud by Ogden Standard.

REWARD OF $300 OFFERED

HERALD-REPUBLICAN WILL PAY THAT SUM FOR INCRIMINATING EVIDENCE HERE.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Los Angeles, Dec. 11.—Charged with felony, L. V. Curry, Mrs. L. V. Curry and Fred Ricker were arrested in Los Angeles this afternoon as a result of a telegraphic dispatch from Ogden, stating that the trio has been guilty of a conspiracy to defraud the Standard, which is a newspaper published in Ogden, Utah, by the Standard Publishing Co., of Ogden, Utah, and later the woman was arrested at the Pittsburg hotel. The three refused to discuss the case.

The police declare that the woman is known as "Dolly Dimples," and that she has been connected with a number of similar ventures. Mrs. Curry stated that she was a newspaper woman, and demanded that she be treated with consideration. She denied that she was guilty of wrongdoing, although she said that she had used the name "Dolly Dimples."

The persons mentioned—Ricker, Curry and Mrs. Curry—were arrested in Los Angeles at the request of William Glasman, owner of the Ogden Standard, who alleges that instead of conducting the Dolly Dimples advertising scheme on the square they deceived him, and allowed Miss Dimples to be caught by a person whom they had informed previously, and that this person had divided with Ricker, Curry and the latter's wife the reward which the Standard paid thinking the contest was absolutely square.

Mrs. Curry was the Dolly Dimples in the Herald-Republican's recent contest of that name, and Curry and Ricker were her managers. Shortly after the contest opened, the Herald-Republican turned the matter over to a committee consisting of George W. McAllister, president of the Manufacturers' association, J. L. Perkins, secretary of the Real Estate association, and the Rev. Dr. Francis Burgette, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. This committee held the reward money. After Dolly Dimples entered the office of the Herald-Republican, and Mrs. J. W. Woodruff, who lives at the Temple hotel, both assuring the management that Mrs. Woodruff was the captor under the Dolly Dimples contest, the matter was turned over to this committee. After Dolly Dimples had made an affidavit setting forth the matter, Mrs. Woodruff made an affidavit that she was not in collusion with Dolly Dimples and the committee investigated these, and ordered the money paid. The committee then made an affidavit that, to the best of their knowledge and belief, Mrs. Woodruff had captured Dolly Dimples according to the rules of the contest, and therefore, she was entitled to the money.

All these affidavits were published in the Herald-Republican at the time, and this paper was convinced then and is still convinced that the contest was honestly conducted, and that Mrs. Woodruff was not in collusion with Dolly Dimples or her managers. Mrs. Woodruff made an affidavit that she was not in collusion with Dolly Dimples or her managers, and the Herald-Republican believed it at that time, and still believes it.

However, The Herald-Republican hereby offers a reward of $300 to the person or persons that will furnish this paper with evidence that will establish the fact that Mrs. Woodruff was in collusion with Dolly Dimples or her managers in making the capture and getting the reward money from the Herald-Republican, or that she was in collusion with any other persons who were in collusion with Dolly Dimples or her managers.

It must be understood that this evidence, if secured, is to be used in prosecuting Dolly Dimples and her managers if the Ogden Standard is unable to secure a conviction; and if they are convicted in the evidence is to be held until such time as they are free of the charge there, when The Herald-Republican can press its charges.

The Dolly Dimples idea was probably one of the most clever ever attempted in Salt Lake. It was successful from the standpoint of public interest and financially to The Herald-Republican. Yet, in the Dolly Dimples or her managers were not absolutely on the square with The Herald-Republican, this paper will cheerfully help them behind the bars, where they belong, and will pay $300 for the evidence to put them there.

UTAH COUNTY SMALLPOX.

Disease Raging in Provo and American Fork Among Citizens.

According to a report received by Dr. T. B. Beatty, secretary of the state board of health, there are now seven cases of smallpox in Provo, and one in American Fork. In Provo, the disease is spreading rapidly, and it is feared that it may reach a point where it will be difficult to control.

Another report received from American Fork, by Dr. Beatty, contains a strong argument for general vaccination. Although there are nearly 500 cases of the disease in this mild form, reported at American Fork, practically one case to every five inhabitants, in no instance has a vaccinated person been attacked.

Highest prices for strictly fresh eggs.

THE ROYAL CAFE.

Kodak Finishing.

Salt Lake Photo Supply Co., 177 Main St.

Removal Sale.

Big reductions in wall paper and framed pictures before moving to our new store.

GEO. W. EBERT & CO., 57 Main St.

Your Christmas Gifts

The custom of giving money, stocks and bonds as Christmas remembrances to members of your family and to your friends is growing in favor each year.

An Account for Savings in any sum from $1.00 upwards, or one of the Mortgage Certificates guaranteed by the Salt Lake Security & Trust Company is sure to be appreciated. A Pass Book credited with a deposit and enclosed in one of our special holiday envelopes is a most appropriate gift for children, relatives and friends.

Salt Lake Security & Trust Company

32 Up, Main Street

Capital $300,000.00

Surplus $100,000.00

SO THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW

THE poor old fat-head Tribune appeared yesterday in a new role. When Special Officer C. C. Riley was murdered by highwaymen, his young wife made a widow, L. E. Driskell, who was captured by the Salt Lake police, confessed the crime. With him, it is alleged, when Riley was shot, was "Fat" Williams, a negro. Practically ever since Driskell confessed, Police Chief Sam Barlow, Sheriff Joseph C. Sharp and Superintendent of Detectives George Sheets have been looking for Williams.

A few days ago both the sheriff and the police received word that Williams was in Rawlins, Wyo. But, when the news of Williams, but Williams has not been arrested. So yesterday morning the poor old Tribune heard somebody say that they heard Williams had been caught. Consequently, out further investigation, the Tribune printed the story of Williams' arrest yesterday morning, imagining all sort of things, among them that District Attorney Fred C. Looftbourne had issued a warrant, that the sheriff was going to start at once for the prisoner, and that all that was necessary was to send Williams to the gallows or the penitentiary. As a matter of fact, Williams has not been arrested, and probably never will be now. The Tribune publication is notice to Williams' Salt Lake friends that he is wanted, and Williams will at once get far enough away to insure safety. The poor old Tribune is certainly going from bad to worse. A murderer, the slayer of a brave officer, will escape through a Tribune blunder. Generally the poor old Tribune's blunders are only laughable. This one is serious.

"I have absolutely no word from Rawlins or anywhere else that Williams has been arrested," says Sheriff Sharp.

"We certainly do want Williams, and I wired the chief of police at Rawlins to hold him, but have received no reply," says Chief Barlow.

The poor old Tribune certainly surpassed itself yesterday. Under lurid headlines it went into exacting detail over a "murderous assault and robbery of $500" from Hop Sing, a penniless Chinaman in Commercial street.

Chief Barlow discredits the Tribune in a statement as follows: "The story that Hop Sing had been murderously assaulted and would probably die caused me to detail an officer to learn the facts. The investigation revealed that the Chinaman had not been seriously hurt—as a matter of fact, only slightly injured about the head. We have no information that there was a robbery subsequent to the assault. As near as we can learn, Hop Sing had no money."

The upshot of the fracas in which the Chin received a scalp wound was a charge of common battery against Floyd Moxley, a soldier, made before Judge Bowman yesterday.

When "Fat" Williams is arrested, no matter where he runs amuck, The Herald-Republican will print the story a day or two before the Tribune emerges from its stupor, and when any murderous assaults are committed in Salt Lake a fair presentation of the fact will appear exclusively in The Herald-Republican, as usual. And when there is any other news, live and interesting, it won't appear in the poor old Tribune unless some one charitably carts it into the office and insists upon its publication. And if precedent is followed, it will be hacked and garbled beyond recognition.

LOT SMITH HEROES TO BE PENALIZED

Recent Ruling of Pension Bureau Set Aside by Decision Just Rendered.

OLD SALT LAKE COMPANY VETERANS NOW LIVING HERE DID VALIANT SERVICE.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Washington, Dec. 11.—By a decision just rendered, the members of the Lot Smith company, who were mustered into service during the civil war, will be restored to a pensionable status. Under a recent ruling of the pension bureau many of these pensioners were stricken from the rolls. Under the present decision the previous action is overruled, and all persons making application to the commissioner will be restored to the rolls, with back pension from date of rejection.

The Lot Smith company, raised by Brigham Young at the request of President Lincoln, performed valiant service in the protection of the property of the Telegraph and Overland Mail companies in and about Independence Rock in 1862, at a time when the situation in Indian warfare was most hazardous and critical.

Following several Indian outbreaks, in which disaster was wrought to the whites, the Lot Smith company of cavalry was mustered into the government service April 30, 1862, with a full complement, consisting of three officers, non-commissioned officers and privates.

They were enlisted for ninety days, or until relieved by a detachment of the regular army. Their specific duty was the patrolling of the territory in and about the region of Independence Rock. The officers of the company were: Lot Smith, captain; Joseph L. Rawlins, first lieutenant; J. Quincy Knowlton, second lieutenant; Richard H. Atwood, orderly sergeant; James M. Barlow, quartermaster sergeant; Samuel H. W. Riter, John P. Wimmer, Francis O. Spencer, Moses Thurston, sergeants; Seymour B. Young, Newton Myrick, William A. Brigham, John Hoagland, Joseph H. Pelt, John Neff, Andrew Bigler, Hyrum Pelt, Clements, corporals; Ira N. Hinckley, John Helm, farmers; Francis Platt, saddler; Solomon Hale, wagoner; Josiah Eardley and Charles Evans, musicians. The company numbered seventy-two privates.

During their service the Lot Smith company was attached to Colonel Collins' regiment of General Craig's division, and were employed to guard the road from Green River to Salt Lake, with headquarters at Fort Bridger. The company returned to Salt Lake August 3, and was mustered out of service August 14, 1862.

For their service the company and its officers received high commendation from the regular army officers and war department.

AUTHORITIES ACTIVE.

Stealing Timber From Indian Lands Dangerous Business.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Every effort is being made to secure the conviction of those who may be guilty of cutting timber unlawfully upon Indian lands, in the hope that this may have a deterrent effect upon those who may be inclined to commit similar depredations.

This statement is contained in the annual report of J. H. Wright, commissioner of the five civilized tribes of Indians in Oklahoma, who reported today to the Indian bureau that the investigations in connection with these alleged offenses have been well spent.

Attention is called to the great number of cases reported to the department of justice in connection with alleged illegal encroachments of the lands and the disposition of some Indians to resist the severance of their tribal relations.

THREE MEN SUFFOCATED.

Smoke From Fire in Fan House

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 11.—Three men died of suffocation and twenty-one others were overcome and rescued with difficulty late last night as a result of a period accident in the fan house of the Shoe-maker Lining company, fifteen miles northeast of this city. All are foreigners. Fire broke out in the fan house at the mouth of the shaft. The place was deserted and the flames gained headway before being discovered. Meanwhile the fans were in operation, pumping air to the twenty-four men in the mine. The smoke caused by the fire was caught by the fans and forced into the mine with such volume that three men were suffocated and the others rescued in a serious state of exhaustion.

EXPORT STATEMENT.

Report Shows Falling Off of $51,000,000 So Far This Year.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The monthly statement of exports of domestic products issued by the department of commerce and labor for November shows increases of $17,000,000 over the corresponding month in 1908, but a decrease of $51,000,000 for the eleven months of 1909.

For the month the valuations of exports of wheat, corn and mineral oil show the leading regresses. While the decrease in the number of bales of cotton exported was several thousand, the increase in value was $10,000,000. Wheat, hogs and sheep show light decreases.

"Royal" State Bread Depot

Open 3 to 5 p. m. daily. Entrance on Third South. Good bread very cheap.

Mother and Babes Living in Woodshed Eating Only Flour

Living in a woodshed in the rear of 216 West Fourth North street, Mrs. Susie Miller, who three months ago secured a divorce from her husband, Henry E. Miller, at Hepperman, Idaho, and her three children, are eating the "wolf from the door," and with three little children suffering from cold she is almost at the point of giving up the fight. She is feeding the children on flour and water.

"My little Leon," she said yesterday afternoon, "is just recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, and I am so afraid that my other two sons (John is four years of age and Elmer three years) will catch pneumonia. They are coughing badly, and I haven't money enough to get a doctor."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

MOTHERS' CONGRESS HOLDS A SESSION

Women Discuss Playgrounds, Child Labor and Other Pertinent Topics.

Interesting talks and discussion were the feature of the meeting yesterday afternoon of the Utah State Congress of Mothers, held at the home of Mrs. W. V. Rice, 183 East South Temple street.

In opening the meeting the president, Mrs. C. E. Allen, referred to various matters in which the congress is interested. Mrs. Adolph Simon read her paper on "Child Labor," which had previously been presented to the Literary club and the principals of the city schools.

An interesting talk on the need of proper public playgrounds for the children was given by Miss Kate Williams, secretary of the newly formed Parks and Playgrounds association, and something of what the association proposed to do for the children was outlined.

The meeting it was decided that during the early part of the coming year circles will be formed in various parts of the city, and a systematic course of study in subjects of interest to mothers taken up.

The members of the congress were entertained by Mrs. Rice, refreshments being served at the close of the meeting.

In reviewing the conditions in the public schools of Salt Lake, Mrs. Adolph Simon said:

"According to our latest school census, taken this summer, there were, in round numbers, 21,000 children of school age in Salt Lake. The enrollment at the beginning of the present school year was 16,000. The number attending private schools was approximately 1,000, leaving 4,000 children to be accounted for who are of school age and are not enrolled in any public school. Last year there were about 300 children exempted from school attendance, and Superintendent of Schools says there are about 200 children who are not in school and should be. These are notified, of course, as soon as the first six weeks of the school year are up, that the law requires them to be in school. There are always about 2,000 children 6 and 7 years old who do not enter school, parents deeming it best not to enter them too young. There are about 100 children between the ages of 14 and 18 who have completed an eighth grade and do not continue in school. This leaves approximately 700 children to be accounted for."

It is from these numbers that we derive the many young people who roam our streets at night and caused a visitor from the east, interested in the work, to say to Judge McMaster that he saw more children on the streets of Salt Lake City at night than he has seen in any city which he had visited from the Atlantic coast to this point, regardless of size."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

When a representative of The Herald-Republican called at the little home, which is actually a woodshed, about seven feet in length, Mrs. Miller was preparing dinner for her children, and all it consisted of was a little flour, which she was cooking in a pot over a fire.

"I could take in washing," said Mrs. Miller, "but I don't want to wash or a boiler, and I would probably not be allowed to use the clotheslines. If I had a few pennies to get started and a warm place to keep my children, I was given the use of this woodshed free of rent by the landlord, when he found that it was impossible for me to pay rent for two rooms which I occupied up to about three weeks ago."

"The Joys of Xmas"

will depend, to some extent at least, upon how well you have pleased others with your gift selections. Choose carefully. Get the most appropriate gifts and the most value as well.

We want to assure you that you will not go wrong in buying here.

Our store is filled to overflowing with Xmas ideas—each one a sensible suggestion.

This is the "Gentleman's Xmas Store"

Everything a good clothes shop should carry, at a price that is sure to please.

MAKE UP YOUR LIST FROM THIS "SHOPPERS' GUIDE"

House Jackets and Smoking Jackets, elegantly made—good varieties—$6.50 to $17.50

Bath Robes and Lounging Robes—some striking effects—full of comfort—$6.50 to $18.00

HOLEPROOF HOSE

They come in all sizes for men, women or children; handsome Xmas boxes—splendid present for an intimate friend or a relative.

Stockings for Children, $2.00 per box

6 pairs to the box.

Ties—every new idea—35c to $1.50

Phoenix Mufflers—50c and 75c

Silk Mufflers and Reefers—$1.50 to $4.00

Silk Handkerchiefs—50c to $1.50

Sweater Coats—$2.00 to $6.00

Knit Gloves—50c to $1.50

Fancy Suspenders—individual Xmas boxes .60c to $3.00

Kid Gloves—the world's best makes $1.25 to 2.50

Phoenix Silk Hosiery—all solid silk—extra value 50c

Umbrellas, Hats, Caps, Auto Caps, Scarf Pins, Hose Supporters, Suede Gloves, Fancy Vests, Initial Handkerchiefs, Watch Fobs, Shirts, and—nothing could equal

A Benjamin Suit or Overcoat $18 to $40.

Poulton Madden Owen & Co.

J. D. OWEN, Mgr.

245 MAIN STREET

CORPORATION TAX SOON DELINQUENT

Concerns of Utah Contribute $40,000 in Fees to Secretary of State.

There were more than 2,000 corporations doing business in Utah, which paid their taxes during October and November, and are now eligible to continue to do business in the state, according to figures made by Heber Cummings, corporation deputy in the secretary of state's office. There were about 2,300 receipts sent out during the two months, but of these about 300 were for companies which paid for two or three years at a time, clearing their record for the last two years.

In fees alone the secretary of state's office collected $30,000 during the two months, of which approximately $40,000 was for corporations. There are about 3,000 corporations on the books in the secretary of state's office, which, in the past, have been doing business in the state. It was expected, however, that no more than 4,000 companies would be left on the books of the office when the law takes effect finally, in regard to the payment of corporation taxes. The live companies will pay the taxes, and the dead ones will drop out of existence.

After December 15, next Wednesday, the corporation taxes will become delinquent and $10 will have to be added to the regular fee after that date.

Measure Will Be Taken Up Monday and Rushed Through.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The white slave bill, introduced by Chairman Mann of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, will be taken up by that committee next Monday. The intention is to press the measure, and its advocates expect its passage by both houses of congress.

The only stumbling block sighted is the hairbreadth of distinction as to the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce law over such a matter, but those urging the bill believe members of both houses will have no differences as to the merits of the proposed legislation. The Mann bill is designed to regulate and prevent the transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of alien women and girls for immoral purposes.

Tribune-Reporter Printing Co., 66 West Second South. Phones 713

We can't afford to sell you anything you do not want.

You might never come again. We have built our business by pleasing customers.

Our Holiday lines for this year are more pleasing than ever, and the early buyer has an easy selection.

NO SIGN OF TROUBLE.

Bridgeport, O., Dec. 11.—With the military and special guards gone to their homes, the Arma Standard plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company, where a strike is on, had almost a deserted aspect today. The strikers maintained pickets.

Do you kodak? We finish and also sell the supplies. Salt Lake Photo Supply Co., 177 Main street.

As gift buying days grow fewer, ad. reading should be increasingly helpful to you.

Western Fuel Co.

(Critchlow, Fischer & Kittle)

Cable Address "Wesfuelco."

Phones 719 73 Main Street

Western Fuel Co.

(Critchlow, Fischer & Kittle)

Cable Address "Wesfuelco."

Phones 719 73 Main Street